'ANGRY BIGFOOT DESTROYED MY CAR!'

By BEATRICE DEXTER / Weekly World News

CHARLOTTE, N.C. — Contractor Hank Tarby says his Mazda 626 is totaled, but the damage didn't happen in a traffic accident — it was caused by an encounter with an angry Bigfoot!

The 50-year-old father of three told police he was driving in the mountains on his way home from a hunting trip when the giant hairy beast jumped in front of his car and trashed the vehicle with its fists.

"I slammed on the brakes, but I couldn't stop completely and I think I winged him a little with my front right bumper," Tarby recalled. "That made him furious.

"He grabbed the front of the car and bounced it up and down, then he started pounding on it with his fists and smashing the front with his feet. I was sitting inside just hanging onto the steering wheel. I was scared to death."

His car for almost 15 minutes. Then the reddish-brown ape-like animal got around behind the vehicle and pushed it over an embankment, sending it down a steep incline into a tree.

Tarby, who was wearing a seat belt, survived the plunge unscathed. The horrified hunter says he waited an hour or so before he climbed out of his damaged car and fled nine miles to the nearest gas station.

"I was scared that the creature was lurking somewhere, waiting for me to get out of the car," he said.

"I knew he was strong enough to tear me limb from limb if he wanted to.

WANG'S tasty dumplings looked inviting — till customers learned they were filled with human flesh.

Caught selling dumplings made from human buttocks

BEIJING (Reuter) — A restaurant here has been exposed for serving dumplings stuffed with human flesh — which proved to be a hit with unsuspecting customers.

Wang Guang offered them in his White Temple Restaurant, according to a recent edition of the Hainan Special Zone Daily.

His brother Hing, a crematorium worker, supplied him with flesh hacked from the buttocks and thighs of corpses, the newspaper said.

"He ground them up, then mixed the flesh with lots of spices and herbs for fear that customers would discover what he was serving," a source said. "He billed them as pork-style dumplings."

CHEF Wang Guang, top, made headlines around the world with his shocking human dumplings. At left, one of Wang's unsuspecting customers enjoys a plate of dumplings.

Chef makes lip-smackin' dumplings — out of HUMAN FLESH!

BEIJING, China — Shifty chef Wang Guang dished up the most delicious dumplings in town and fat-cat diners paid big bucks to gobble them down — till cops learned wily Wang was stuffing his dumplings with human flesh!

His meat-filled delicacies kept him rolling in dough!

By JOE BERGER
Weekly World News

To be precise, the rascally restaurant owner filled the doughy delicacies with meat carved from human behinds — and made a fortune peddling his butt dumplings to unsuspecting patrons.

"Everyone thought this going, and people lined up around the block to get in," recalled British businessman Owen Wicks after a recent visit to Beijing.

"And those dumplings, they were the specialty of the house. Everywhere I traveled, people were raving about them.

"When I learned what was in them, I said a little prayer of thanks that I'd never gotten around to trying them."

Hing, a crematorium worker, agreed to supply him with all the fresh flesh he could put in the pot.

For three years, helpful Hing hacked the buttocks off corpses before shoving them into the fiery furnace and delivered the tender slabs of meat to his brother's ritzy restaurant.

Wicked Wang ground up the human heinies, dressed in just the right spices and herbs to mask the taste, and then the bottom fell out.

The end came when the frantic parents of a young woman killed in an auto accident decided to view their daughter's body before it was cremated — and discovered that her rear end was missing.

When the horrified mom and dad raised a ruckus, shook-up Hing spilled the beans. Now cops are trying to decide what charges to file against the diabolical duo.

"I think we'd better put them in jail fast," said Prosecutor Poon Chi-chun, "be-godly concoction inside his scrumptious dumplings.

"Those dumplings were delectable," said police investigator Aw Ting. "I ate them many times myself, and all my friends did, too. Everyone flocked to Wang's restaurant and the newspapers called him a master chef. No one dreamed he was serving up human flesh."

New Cornell University study reveals:

10 WAYS TO KEEP FROM GETTING DUMPED ON BY YOUR LOVED ONES!

By JUNE SAWYER / Weekly World News

You can head off arguments with loved ones — and make your most important relationships closer — by following 10 surefire tips, say experts.

The list is based on a new Cornell University study of 250 individuals, along with their mates, friends and relatives.

Here are the most important things you can do to keep relationships on track, researchers found:

1. Give relationships time to develop. True intimacy grows slowly.
2. Be honest and open with those you love. Telling lies, being deceitful and keeping secrets can damage a relationship.
3. Expect imperfections in your loved ones. Nobody is perfect — and sometimes minor shortcomings can even be endearing.
4. Always treat others the way you want to be treated.
5. Take pride in your loved ones' successes. And avoid competing with them or comparing their accomplishments with your own.
6. Don't expect things to always go smoothly. Even the most loving relationships are marked by occasional disagreements and conflicts.
7. Hug your loved ones every day. The warmth of human touch helps get rid of loneliness and despair.
8. Be a good listener. It shows that you care and it makes the other person feel important.
9. Smile. An honest smile shows that you're a warm person.
10. Never break a confidence or talk behind your loved one's back. Nothing will poison a relationship more quickly.

Psychiatrist issues warning on Deadly Dream Syndrome!

90 AMERICANS DIE FROM BIZARRE NIGHTMARE DISEASE!

By MIKE FOSTER/Weekly World News

A psychiatrist is warning the public about a newly discovered sleeping disorder — a four-part nightmare that invariably ends in the death of the dreamer.

"At least 90 Americans have died of this fatal nightmare in the past year," revealed Dr. Harlan Marsci, who discovered the syndrome. "We consider it serious."

In each case, the sleeper first dreams of being chased by a menacing figure — but the shape of the figure is unclear.

In the second dream, the pursuer is seen more clearly. It is a tall male wearing a dark, hooded robe.

In the third dream, six hooded figures pursue the victim, carrying strange, disk-shaped weapons in their hands.

Dr. Harlan Marsci.

"Of course we have no idea what takes place in the final nightmare," said Dr. Marsci. "However, in each case the individuals have been found in their beds the next morning, deceased. The cause of death is always heart failure."

The New York City-based psychiatrist first became aware of what has been dubbed the Deadly Dream Syndrome earlier this year.

Dr. Marsci has this advice for NEWS readers: "If you experience nightmare No. 1, do not be alarmed. However, if you later become a victim of nightmare No. 2, consult a mental health professional immediately!"

Find a needle in a haystack — and win $1 million!

Finding a needle in a haystack has always been considered a nearly impossible task — but if you can do it in Kalmar, Sweden, you'll earn a cool $1 million!

By CHARLES GEORGE
Weekly World News

That's the attention-grabbing reward for the annual Needle in the Haystack Contest Kalmar has sponsored every year since 1978. This year's top prize is the biggest the town has ever offered.

"When this contest started back all those years ago it was just a little thing for some of my friends," said contest organizer Sven Kjork. "Before I knew it we were getting coverage by the local newspaper and then even ended up on TV one year."

In the contest as many as 50 people jump into the giant haystack and scramble to find the specially marked needle.

The competition sometimes goes on for 20 furious minutes before someone wins. This year's finals are slated for February 17th.

Try to do onto others as you would have them do onto you, and do not be discouraged if they fail sometimes. It is much better that they should fail than that you should.

The victims — an elderly man, his five adult children and six grandchildren — were living in separate households in Texas, New York, Florida and Michigan when the tragedy took place late last month.

Investigators say other members of the family died in a similar episode of mass spontaneous combustion during a family picnic in 1926.

SUSAN SMITH IN PRISON BRAWL

Baby-killer gets revenge on inmate who attacked her last August!

By PETER STEELE / Weekly World News

COLUMBIA, S.C. — Prison officials angrily deny it — but rumors are flying that baby-killer Susan Smith touched off a five minute brawl that sent two convicts to the hospital, apparently while trying to get revenge on the inmate who beat her to a pulp during yet another fight last August!

Smith reportedly sprained her left ankle during the altercation, possibly when she kicked a prison guard who tried to stop the fight and calm her down.

There are no photographs of the incident. But based on a description provided by anonymous sources, including one alleged eyewitness, computer artists were able to re-create the scene in shocking detail.

Smith, 23, is arguably the world's most hated woman — an insanely selfish mother who drowned her children Michael, 3, and Alex, 14 months, because they were putting a damper on her social life.

After her conviction of the murders last August, a jury sentenced Smith to life in prison. She is incarcerated at the Women's Correctional Institution in Columbia, where she is expected to remain until she dies.

"Susan Smith had hoped to lead a quiet life in prison but it just isn't to be," declared Peter Fleare, the Washington-based journalist and author who is writing a book on Smith, tentatively titled, Why Me?

"She hadn't been in prison more than three weeks when reports began to surface that she had been attacked and beaten senseless by a fellow inmate," he continued.

"Here we are just four months later and from all indications, she's at it again. This time, according to the rumors, Smith started the fight with the inmate who beat her up in August, touching off a brawl that reportedly involved 12 to 14 inmates and several guards.

"The rumors suggest that Smith was victorious, if you can call the outcome of any brawl victorious. At least she wasn't beaten black and blue like she was the first time."

As a matter of record, Smith strapped her children into car seats and rolled the vehicle into a lake near her home in Union, S.C., in 1994.

She was convicted of the murders in August. And even though she escaped the death penalty, prison officials acknowledged that her life would be in danger from other inmates and decided to keep her in isolation for her own safety.

"Isolation protects a prisoner only as long as her cell door is locked," said Fleare. "Once she's out on common ground with other inmates, anything can happen — and it usually does.

"As the story goes, the fight started when Smith bolted from a guard in a prison hallway, screaming, 'I'll kill you, bitch!' and jumped on the inmate who attacked her in August.

"As many as 14 other inmates allegedly joined the fight and from what I understand, at least two guards tried to stop it.

"The source of the rumor is anonymous, but the claim is that one of the guards was hurt, although the injuries weren't serious.

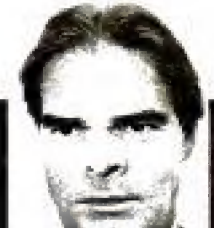
"Two inmates were reportedly treated at the prison infirmary and Smith sprained her left ankle," continued Fleare. "All in all, it doesn't appear to have been too serious, although the potential would seem to have been there."

PRISON DENIAL

A spokesman for the South Carolina Department of Corrections strongly denied reports that Susan Smith was involved in any prison brawl.

"Nothing like that has occurred with Susan Smith," said John Barkley, a spokesman for the corrections agency. "Susan Smith was not involved in any sort of incident and there has not been any kind of disturbance in the area where she is housed.

"We rarely have any disturbances," Barkley said. "And there have not been any incidents like this involving Susan Smith."



CONVICTED KILLER Susan Smith has reportedly settled the score with the inmate who beat her up last August. This artist's conception shows how Smith turned into a wildcat during the alleged prison brawl.

EXCLUSIVE photo of most hated mom, Susan Smith, after she was badly beaten by a prison inmate last August.

INNOCENT victims: Michael Smith, 3, and his brother Alex, 14 months.

Man crushed to death — by suits of armor!

HAMBURG, Germany — A collector of medieval armor was killed tragically when 23 of his prize specimens collapsed like dominoes, crushing him to death.

The suits of armor were arranged on the sweeping staircase of Anders Kraus's palatial home, one suit to a step.

When a servant accidentally knocked over the suit on the top step it started a chain reaction that wound up flattening Kraus, 52, where he stood at the bottom of the stairs.

Motorist tosses lit cigarette out car window & burns man alive!

HUMAN TORCH: Bryan Boswell went up in flames after his gasoline-soaked clothes were ignited in a freak accident while he was repairing his car.

BARROW CREEK, Australia — Luckless Bryan Boswell was burned alive — after a cigarette tossed from a passing car struck his gasoline soaked jacket and set him on fire!

"He was working on his car on the side of the road trying to clear a clogged fuel filter and his jacket was soaked with gasoline,' revealed Police Sgt. Philip Cochran, who investigated the freak accident.

"When that cigarette touched his jacket, it turned him into a human torch."

The 32-year-old architect's car had broken down on a remote stretch of highway shortly after noon on November 14, say authorities.

The tragedy took place as college student Maggie Albright, 18, drove by on the lonely road.

"It was a bright, sunny day," she recalled. "I had just lit up a cigarette and rolled down the window to enjoy the cool breeze.

"When I saw a car broken down, I stopped and asked the driver if I could help. He smiled cheerfully and said he was fine, he was almost done. He also said I ought to quit smoking.

"I just laughed. But as I pulled off, I realized he was right and tossed the cigarette out of the window."

Tragically, the wind sent the butt fluttering straight at Boswell. "I glanced back in the rearview mirror and I saw that the man's clothes were on fire," said Maggie. "It was horrible!

"He stood there swatting at the flames, but they swept over his whole body, engulfing him."

Police have determined that Maggie is not to blame, but the distraught student admits, "I can't help feeling guilty."

Q I thought that Pizza Hut commercial Donald Trump did with his ex-wife Ivana — making fun of their divorce battle by quarreling over how to divvy up a pie — was hysterical. Any chance of other former marrieds like Burt Reynolds and Loni Anderson doing a rib-tickling ad for the company?
— Sandy C., Los Angeles, Calif.

A Believe it or not, Loni says Burt actually approached her and suggested the two of them do a similar TV spot. But her bitterness about the collapse of their marriage is too great and she turned him down, the blonde beauty said in a recent interview.

"I told the lawyers, 'You know, I didn't think it was funny when it happened. I don't think it's funny now. And talk to me in 20 years and I still won't think it's funny!' "

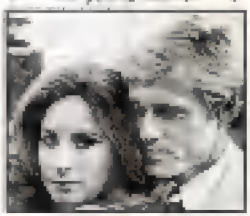
Q My boyfriend and I recently saw that old tearjerker The Way We Were on TV and agreed that Barbra Streisand and Robert Redford had a real chemistry, especially in their big love scene. What was going on during the film shoot?
— Sylvia P., Nashville, Tenn.

BITTERNESS: Loni Anderson plans to be mad at ex-hubby Burt Reynolds for at least 20 years, above.

A Barbra found that there was much more to the handsome actor than she expected, according to a new biography of the songbird by writer James Spada.

Redford was so worried that he might become aroused during the love scene that he climbed into bed wearing TWO athletic supporters. But the dueling jocktraps were visible through the sheets — so red-faced Redford was forced to take them off. Writes Spada, "The look of ecstasy on Barbra's face in the scene likely reflected reacting more than acting."



THE WAY THEY WERE: Barbra Streisand and Robert Redford.

Sexy Sharon, now appearing in Casino, recently told GQ: "If I have to diet, I'm going to diet. If I have to work out, I'm gonna work out. THE FRASIER BROTHERS: Kelsey Grammer, above, and David Hyde Pierce.

A Yale-educated David Hyde Pierce, who plays uptight Niles, can't say enough good things about series star Kelsey Grammer.

"I love Kelsey like I love my own brother — and that's a great deal," he revealed in a recent interview.

Unlike many sitcom prima donnas, Grammer gives his TV kid brother and other cast members plenty of chances to shine, said Pierce.

"I don't know anybody that is more upbeat and outgoing and generous and supportive."

Ten days before NASA probe vanished without a trace . . .

'MARS OBSERVER' PHOTOGRAPHED GIANT FISH IN SPACE!

By MACKIE LAINE · Weekly World News

WASHINGTON — A secret NASA photograph of a gigantic fish swimming through space proves it beyond the shadow of a doubt: Life not only exists on other planets — it exists in the eerie vastness of space itself!

That's the word from astrophysicist Dr. Benjamin Frania. The scientist obtained a copy of the photo from NASA sources, who say the picture was beamed back to Earth from the Mars Observer before the space probe mysteriously went silent on August 21, 1993.

Dr. Frania

NASA spokesmen declined to comment on the photograph or Dr. Frania's report.

But insiders privately conceded that analysts are looking into the possibility that the creature, which is estimated to be 750 miles long, collided with the probe — or attacked it outright. "This is not only an astonishing photograph, this is proof that the universe is teeming with life-forms we know absolutely nothing about," Dr. Frania, who is widely considered to be one of the world's leading space scientists, told newsmen.

"Make no mistake. This is a discovery of the first magnitude. And like it or not, it calls into question the importance of humanity in the universal scheme.

"From what I understand, the Mars Observer photographed the fish on August 11, 1993, 12 days before it was to achieve orbit around the Red Planet," he continued.

"I don't think that it poses any threat to Earth at this point because the probe was almost 230 million miles away when it took the picture.

"On the other hand, I can't predict the future.

"Only time will tell if the space fish is headed this way or swimming into deep space."

This isn't the first time that Dr. Frania has made international headlines by releasing information about the Mars Observer that NASA wanted to keep secret.

As Weekly World News and other major media reported previously, the expert obtained a spectacularly clear and detailed photo of the mysterious Face on Mars that the space probe beamed back to Earth on August 20, 1998 — just 24 hours before NASA claimed to have lost contact with it.

The space agency declined to comment. But Dr. Frania said that NASA's own analysts had concluded that the stone monument was built by human beings who lived on the Red Planet 200,000 years ago — and later colonized Earth.

Dr. Frania's latest report is equally shocking — and controversial. Critics, and there are several, have argued that the so-called "space fish" is nothing more than an odd configuration of gases, dust and light.

In a response to those arguments, Dr. Frania released a classified NASA report that concluded, "Far from showing a random image, the photograph appears to show a life-form that bears a remarkable resemblance to a fish.

"Everything is speculation at this point. But it's possible that the life-form damaged the Mars Observer in a collision or by mistaking it for food," Dr. Frania said. "NASA isn't in the business of jumping to conclusions but to say that this creature appears to be a life-form' is the understatement of the year. You don't need a degree in physics to see that this is a living, breathing fish."

AUGUST 11 transmission from Mars Observer featured shocking image of a 750-mile-long fish.

EYES AND MOUTH are clearly visible in this computer-enhanced close-up photograph of the space fish.

AMAZING BIBLE FLOATS IN MIDAIR

By MICHAEL ANDREWS / Weekly World News

Scientists and clergymen from all over the world are studying the amazing "Floating Bible" that hovers four feet over the bed in a small California motel!

Physicists have run a battery of rigorous tests on the otherwise normal Gideon Bible that hangs suspended in the air above the bed as if resting on an invisible shelf.

"We can find absolutely no explanation for it," says physicist Dr. Henry Wanz, head researcher on the project.

"It defies all gravitational laws. We've checked for invisible threads, cords, even trick mirrors. But there is simply nothing holding it up."

A maid discovered the incredible phenomenon — which religious experts are now calling "The Miracle of the Risen Word" — when she came to clean the room after a mysterious bearded man checked out.

Motel owner Frank Glergins, a former atheist, has since closed his tiny motel on the outskirts of Sacramento and gone to work full-time at a rescue mission.

"Seeing the floating Bible has changed my life forever," he says.

"I know it's a personal message to me from God."

Glergins told reporters the amazing story behind the discovery at a local press conference.

"The night before it happened, I rented the room to a bearded man with a kind face," says Glergins.

"As he was checking in we were discussing religion and I told him I didn't believe in God. He looked up from the guest register, gave me a warm, friendly smile and said four simple words that I'll remember all my life — 'You will believe tomorrow.'"

It was the next day when the maid found the Bible floating over the bed and Glergins' life did indeed change.

"When I saw the Bible miraculously hovering there I realized that God really does exist and that I've been wasting my life living only for myself," says the 50-year-old ex-Marine.

"Now I'm making up for lost time, serving the Lord at the mission."

The Bible is open to the page containing Matthew 19:26 which says, "With God all things are possible."

Glergins believes he knows why that verse is being shown.

"I think it's a message," he says, "not just to me but to the world, that God can solve any problem no matter how bad things look." Local clergymen have petitioned the Vatican asking that the floating Bible be officially declared a miracle, but so far there's been no response from the Pope.

"I don't know whether it's a miracle or just a strange, unexplained suspension of natural laws," says Dr. Wanz.

"All I know is that a Bible is hanging in midair over a bed and we can't find any reason for it."

Authorities have been unable to find the bearded man who occupied the room and left Glergins the strange message.

But churchmen in the area are urging the public not to believe the rumor that the man is the reincarnation of Jesus Christ.

MIRACULOUS! Dr. Henry Wanz points to the amazing floating Bible. The physicist is leading a scientific team that is probing the mysterious phenomenon.

FORMER motel owner Frank Glergins.

IS THIS A SIGN FROM GOD? People who have seen the floating Bible say the experience has changed their lives, says Dr. Wanz.

Electrifying photos prove it!

EXECUTIVES PAY BIG BUCKS TO BEAT THE CLOCK!

BERLIN — Harried execs are paying up to $100 per hour to go to special gyms and let off steam with "clock boxing" — an activity in which they put on 8-ounce gloves and punch a big rubber clock! "It's great therapy," said psychiatrist and gym owner Dr. Max Brandt. "These days the average worker feels that time is beating him to death. Clock boxing is a way to strike back subconsciously. They feel great when they finish a workout."

There are 22 clock boxing gyms in Germany and the fad is growing.

Cops say Sofia Lagos celebrated her D.U.I. acquittal by polishing off a pint of rum in the courthouse parking lot. She then got into her car and sped out of the lot, just as Eduardo Borja — the attorney who had pleaded her case — was crossing the street.

MY AMERICA By ED ANGER

Ed Anger's EXCLUSIVE

NEW YEAR'S DIET!

TEXAS FAT-MAN Buster Simcox, left, lost 2,301 pounds so quickly on Ed Anger's diet he ended up with 50 pounds of sagging skin that will have to be surgically removed, above. But hey, now Buster weighs a lean, mean 212 pounds!

I'm madder than a pig at a Weight Watchers convention over everybody bragging about going on a New Year's diet. What a bunch of hogwash!

The only way most of these tubs of lard could lose weight is by having some limbs amputated.

But if you're really serious about shedding that ugly flab and getting lean and mean like me in 1996, all you have to do is get on the Ed Anger New Year's Diet Plan. Even my blubber-butt wife Thelma Jean lost 35 pounds on it and she eats like a pregnant elephant seal, by golly.

In fact, I chased down my family doc on the golf course the other day to see what he thought about it and he put it in a nutshell when he said, "Ed, you've done it again. It's brilliant."

Just by following a few simple rules you can eat all you want anytime you want and never gain an ounce.

Even Oprah Winfrey wouldn't have to look like the Pillsbury Doughgirl with my amazing new diet, for crying out loud.

The first and most important rule for shedding ugly flab is that if you eat something and nobody sees you eat it, it doesn't have any calories. And another good tip is that if you drink a diet soda with a candy bar, the calories in the candy bar are canceled out by the diet soda.

When you eat with someone else, calories don't count if you don't eat more than they do.

Food used for medicinal purposes NEVER counts, even hot chocolate, brandy or cheesecake.

And I've always noticed that if you fatten up everyone else around you, then you instantly look thinner and are able to splurge a little more at the dinner table!

Food eaten at the movies, county fair or the bowling alley has no calories because it's part of the entertainment package — stuff like Milk Duds, hot buttered popcorn, Junior Mints, Red Hots, Tootsie Rolls and foot-long hot dogs.

Cookie pieces contain NO calories at all. The process of breaking causes all the calories to leak out.

Things licked off knives and spoons have no calories if you are in the process of making something else — like a peanut butter sandwich or an ice cream sundae.

And here's something I'll bet you didn't know — foods that are the same color nearly always have the same amount of calories. For instance, spinach and key lime pie are equally fattening.

And there isn't one bit of caloric difference between radishes and candy apples, believe it or not.

And a half-gallon tub of vanilla ice cream has only about 2 percent more calories than the same amount of cottage cheese — because they're both white.

So forget all the diet balderdash you've ever heard. The Ed Anger New Year's Diet will do the trick in '96 — or yours truly will eat a plate of crow.

JAILBIRD WINS $232,000 FROM GUARD WHO ATE HIS PET SNAIL!

By JOE BERGER, Weekly World News

PARIS — Peeved prison inmate Bernie Warreau has won a whopping $232,000 in damages from a heartless guard who killed his pet snail Cyrille — and ate him for lunch!

Dinghat Bernie won the judgment against guard Claude de Guillot and French prison officials when a judge ruled that bumping off the burglar's little buddy violated his civil rights.

"Everyone is entitled to companionship, and that includes convicted felons," said somber Judge Serge Gerardi.

"The killing of Mr. Warreau's friend deprived the plaintiff of comradeship needlessly and without due process of law, in violation of his rights under the French Constitution."

Judge Gerardi ruled that the snail-crazy con — serving seven years for a bookstore break-in — can collect the entire $232,000 judgment the day he's released on parole, probably in June 1996.

"The money'll be nice, but it won't bring Cyrille back," lamented bitter Bernie, 38. "I sure do miss the little guy."

The jailbird said he and Cyrille had been buddies since he found the little critter crawling across the prison yard late last year.

Scientists find 5,000-year-old backgammon board!

Most folks think of backgammon as a faddish yuppie game, but nothing could be further from the truth — it's actually the oldest board game in the world!

Archaeologists found a backgammon board while excavating the ancient Sumerian city of Ur — and determined that it was 5,000 years old!

30-year-old bag of pot found in White House safe

WASHINGTON — The "high-grade marijuana" that was recently discovered in a wall safe in the White House is at least 30 years old — and was apparently hidden away during the Kennedy or Johnson administrations back in the 1960s, officials report.

HERO DOG SAVES 237 CHILDREN!

Retriever swims 5 miles to get help for sinking ferry!

THE MOST INCREDIBLE STORY OF CANINE COURAGE YOU'LL EVER READ!

VALIANT retriever Ole is being hailed as a true hero.

By MICHAEL ANDREWS / Weekly World News

OSTHAMMAR, Sweden — Two hundred thirty-seven children and twelve adults owe their lives to a gutsy pup who swam five grueling miles to alert authorities that their boat was sinking!

The school group was taking a ferry from Osthammar to visit a museum on the island of Aland when the boat struck the wreckage of an old fishing scow and sprung a leak.

"I thought we were doomed to a watery grave," said Liv Bergman, principal of Fulun Elementary.

"In desperation, we decided to try a million-to one possibility: We wrote a note telling where we were. We trusted in a little boy's pet dog to make the swim and carry it back to Osthammar, five long miles away."

Amazingly, the courageous retriever, named Ole, braved the turbulent, freezing waters and struggled to shore. Within minutes a rescue boat was dispatched. All crew members and passengers escaped safe and sound.

The harrowing adventure began when little Hans Klippens sneaked his dog on board despite stern warnings from his teachers.

"The children were all told not to bring pets," says Mrs. Bergman.

"But I should have known that mischievous little Hans would try to get around the rules.

"Hans and Ole are inseparable.

"Ole was always following him to school and Hans often sneaked him into the classroom.

"No matter how many times we warned him, he was always finding new ways to smuggle him in.

"I'm known as a strict principal but I must admit this is one time I'm really glad a child broke one of the rules.

"The ferry struck the half-sunken hull of a fishing boat. The collision tore a huge hole in our boat and I knew we were in big trouble."

Worse yet, the collision damaged the boat's radio, making it impossible to send an S.O.S.

"The captain said it was a matter of hours — probably fewer than six — before we went down," Mrs. Bergman told reporters.

"We decided to send the strongest swimmer.

"But none of the crew felt confident they could make the five miles.

"All of a sudden Hans stepped up with that eager dog.

"'Ole loves to swim,' he said.

"There was no time to debate the issue.

"The captain wrote a note pinpointing our exact latitude and longitude while Hans talked to Ole, explaining what he wanted him to do.

"I know it sounds crazy but I swear that mutt understood every word he was saying.

"Hans tied the note around Ole's collar and sent him off with our prayers."

A passing beachcomber saw the exhausted canine stagger from the surf, looked at the note and alerted the Swedish coast guard.

"I've never seen such a heartwarming display of courage," said ferry captain Borge Larsson.

"And I know there's never been a stronger bond between a boy and his pet. We literally owe our lives to those two and the communication they share."

One special sidelight to the story: Mrs. Bergman has declared an exception in her "no pets" rule.

"From now on Ole is welcome to come to class with Hans anytime he wants to," she said.

PARIS — The bereaved family of Beatrice Dumonet is suing a French publisher claiming that the woman saw a life-sized picture of a spider in their nature magazine — and died of fright!

The Gestienne publishing company will not comment on claims by relatives that Mrs. Dumonet, 33, had a phobia about spiders and suffered a heart attack from fright.

In court papers the family contends that the publishers knew or should have known that

Car crash victim sues boss — for letting her leave 15 minutes early!

MONTARGIS, France — A woman who was badly injured in a car wreck on her way home from work sued her boss and was awarded $45,000 in damages — because he let her off work 15 minutes early!

Regine Dusquet, 36, claimed she would not have suffered a broken back, two broken arms, a crushed clavicle and head injuries if she had been in her office. She says it was her boss's fault that she was driving through a city intersection at 4:31 p.m. and became involved in a three-car collision.

"I had no plans to go home early and would never have been hurt if I had enjoyed my normal routine," said Mrs. Dusquet, a mother of two.

"As it is, I suffered terrible pain, a lengthy hospitalization and great inconvenience.

"Six months after the accident, I'm still having to attend regular physical therapy sessions. And doctors tell me it'll be another four months or so before I can go back to work. It's not my fault that these things happened to me."

Mrs. Dusquet was working as a clerk for the Levois Insurance Company when her boss, Andres Froset, told her she should leave the office at 4:45 p.m. instead of the usual 5 p.m.

"He said, 'I insist you go home,' " Mrs. Dusquet testified in civil court. "It wasn't my idea. It triggered a chain of events that shattered my life."

The judge ruled that Mrs. Dusquet should receive an award of $45,000 since she was following her boss's orders and was injured during work hours.

Dr. Robert Schuller reveals...

HOW TO KEEP YOUR NEW YEAR'S RESOLUTIONS!

YOU CAN stick to your resolve in 1996 with Dr. Robert Schuller's tips.

Every New Year's, millions of people make resolutions to lose weight, go back to school, be more patient, save money for a new car.

But by Valentine's Day, 99 percent of those resolutions are broken — and people are left feeling like failures.

Years ago I penned a message to motivate myself when I get discouraged. By following this simple advice you can keep your New Year's resolutions.

Just remember the letters in the word "S-T-R-I-V-E."

Start small. I did. Two members and $500. We started a church. We started small in television — one station 25 years ago. Today we're on nearly 200 stations. So don't try to lose 20 pounds all at once. Start small — lose one pound a week.

Think tall. I did. We dreamed of moving from one TV station to three. Three years later, we expanded to six. Our secret dream was to cover the entire U.S.A. I know how to succeed, but I don't know how to do it in a hurry. If you're driving an old beat up used car, dream of moving up to a brand-new compact — then graduating to a plush luxury sedan. You can even go on to imagine having your own chauffeur-driven limousine.

Reach over the wall. When obstacles block you, look beyond them. Think longer. Think bigger. Think of solutions — you'll find one. If you're on a diet, but your office cafeteria only serves fattening foods, bring your own lunch. If you need to earn extra money, take stock of your talents and hobbies — maybe you can turn one into a part-time job.

Invest your all. Really. Most people fail not because of problems, obstacles, or competition. They fail because they don't give their dream all they've got. If you want to go back to school, don't hold back. Do the reading. Study. Complete all the assignments. Or if you're trying to save for a new car, skip going out to dinner — or eat at McDonald's instead of a fancy restaurant.

Visualize. See yourself in the doorway of a fancy new house, complete with built-in pool. Hold mental pictures of a thinner you lounging by the pool in a bathing suit. Imagine ultimate success in your business life.

Expect to stall. Maybe stumble, maybe get stuck. Expect this and you'll be able to wait it out or work it out. You may slip on your diet and eat a cookie or a piece of pie. Mistakes happen. Just start over again. An unexpected expense may drain some of your savings for a new car. Just go right back to banking what you can every week. Know that adversity is part of success. Relax. It won't last forever. Tough times don't last, tough people do. Keep this simple advice in mind and 1996 can be the year that you keep all your resolutions.

Unfortunately, all my male employees stop working and gawk every time she comes in. In fact, she is such an eyeful that I'm afraid one of my guys is going to turn to look at her and hack his finger off in a slicing machine. I'm serious, Dotti. THE PHANTOM

By ANN VICTORIA/Weekly World News

NASHVILLE, Tenn. — Hundreds of employees and visitors to the historic Grand Ole Opry report seeing the ghost of legendary singer Patsy Cline on and around the Opry stage!

"These sightings have been occurring off and on here ever since Patsy's plane-crash death in 1963," said one employee of the Ryman Auditorium, home of the beloved country music radio show from 1943 to 1974. "But for some reason, since mid-December, reports have been flooding in. My employers don't like us to talk about it to the press, but most of us who work here have seen Patsy in these last few weeks and so have about 100 tourists."

Country music shrine ghost of Patsy Cline,

During her brief life span, Patsy, known for such classics as I Fall to Pieces and Crazy, often played to packed houses there at the Ryman. Though the Opry has since moved to fancier quarters, 100,000 fans a year still come to stare in awe at the stage where greats like Hank Williams and Ernest Tubb made music.

But, according to reports, many are getting an unexpected treat.

"I actually heard Patsy singing," says Memphis truck driver Leonard Eudris, 56. "I was just standing there looking at the stage when I saw a woman's form begin to take shape. I knew right away who it was. That [illegible] outfit gave her away.

"Then, gradually, I heard that unmistakable voice singing, Walkin' After Midnight. She just sang a little of it — those lines about hearing weeping willow crying on h pillow — then she just sort dissolved and vanished."

Not everyone has been fo tunate enough to hear Pat sing onstage. Some have se her in other areas of the R man. Audrey Suldor of Dall says she was on the way

STOCKHOLM, Sweden — Snoring can make you stupid! That's the startling conclusion of university researchers who've found that snorers commonly suffer from sleep apnea, or interrupted breathing, during sleep. Apnea reduces the flow of oxygen to the brain causing snorers to lose their memory and their ability to reason, the researchers say.

What will be the hot moneymaking trend in 1996?

Dear Serena: Every year there seems to be a hot new idea that makes millions of dollars for somebody. This year I want to be that person — and I'm hoping you can help me.

I know you probably get a lot of requests like this but I want you to know I'm an honorable person and if I strike it rich I'll contribute a huge amount of my earnings to the church and charity. So if you could send me a personal letter to let me in on what's going to be big this year, I'd greatly appreciate it. — Grateful in Cedar City

Dear Grateful: I'm happy to tell you what's going to be popular this year. But I think it's only fair that I tell you here in my column so all my readers will have a fair chance to get into the business.

The big thing in 1996 will be high-class professional lawn care. By the time spring rolls around, homeowners will want more than to just have their lawns trimmed, they'll want customized care. There will be a big demand for topiary, which is the art of trimming trees or shrubs into odd, ornamental shapes or even to look like animals.

Good luck.

Dear Serena: I found two $100 bills in a book I checked out from the library and I have been debating what I should do with them. If I turn them in to the librarian, I'm afraid she'd just keep them for herself. So I'm tempted to keep them for myself. But I know if they belong to someone who needs them more than I do, it would be wrong for me to keep them. But I don't know how I could possibly find the person who lost them. As you can tell, I'm clearly perplexed. What should I do with the money? — Honest Man in Tyler

Dear Honest Man: Take it to the police immediately, it's counterfeit. Explain to them where you found it and you won't get in any trouble.

Dear Serena: What should I name my son? I want to give him a name that will fit his personality well when he grows up. But he's only a few days old and only you can tell me what he's going to be like when he gets older. — Happy Mom in Paintsville

Dear Happy Mom: Your son will show strong leadership characteristics when he grows up. He needs a dignified first name such as George — like George Washington, the Father of our Country. His middle name should be Edward, the honorable name of many great kings.

ARMS RACE HOAX EXPOSED!

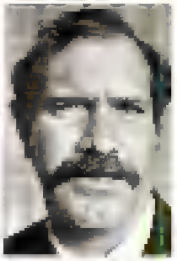
America's nuclear arsenal NEVER existed, says expert



Morton T. Calder

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The U.S. was bluffing throughout the entire Cold War — because we've never really had a single hydrogen bomb!

That's the astonishing conclusion of historian Morton T. Calder, author of the controversial new book, The Great Cold War Hoax. "There are absolutely no nuclear missiles in our silos — just cheap imitations," he said.

By GEORGE SAMFORD
Weekly World News

"But for four decades we kept the Communists in a state of terror — because they were convinced that we could reduce their country to rubble."

What's more, the Russians did the same thing, the author claims. "The whole arms race was an elaborate hoax!"

Calder began researching the subject after seeing classified CIA photos of a Russian missile base, taken in 1975.

"Computer enhancement showed the nuclear missiles were giant wooden props!"

The massive deception began at the end of World War II, says the historian.

"The A-bombs we dropped on Hiroshima and Nagasaki were real — but they were extremely expensive to produce.

"So President Truman ordered the military to create fake atomic weapons and fake photos of atomic test blasts."

In the late 1940s, the Soviets — determined to become a superpower — claimed that they, too, had an atom bomb.

"Then our side dreamed up the 'hydrogen bomb,' supposedly even more powerful than the A-bomb. In no time, Russia boasted it had an H-bomb too. Every time we added a new fake missile system or nuclear warhead, the Russians claimed to have done us one better."

The poker game continued until the breakup of the USSR in 1991, says Calder.

Satanic Mass canceled when human sacrifice admits she's not a virgin!

WEINHEIM, Germany — A Satanic cult's black mass, designed to usher in an age of darkness and chaos, backfired when the virgin they intended to sacrifice admitted she was two months pregnant!

To be effective, the special ceremony had to take place on the winter solstice five years before the start of a new millennium — Dec. 22, 1995 at 3:17 a.m.

It was supposed to put the world under the Devil's rule for the next 1,000 years.

DEAD MAN'S LUCKY NUMBERS WIN THE LOTTERY!

— and make needy family $3 million richer!

HAPPY Brad, Gayela and John Bynum celebrate at Peter's grave.

By ERIC MOON / Weekly World News

MELBOURNE, Australia — Frantic Gayela Bynum and her sons were so broke they didn't know where their next meal was coming from till they won a whopping $3 million jackpot — with a little help from beyond the grave!

The downtrodden mom struck it rich by playing her late husband Peter's favorite lottery numbers — numbers he'd made her promise to play as he lay on his deathbed.

"Peter played those same numbers for years and never won a thing," Gayela recalled.

"But he always said that someday they'd pay off big.

"And just before he died of cancer last year, he begged me to keep playing his numbers for him, no matter what.

"So we kept buying the tickets, even when we really couldn't afford to — and it turned out to be the luckiest thing we ever did."

The millionaire mom and her teenage sons John and Brad couldn't have made their killing at a more opportune time.

"We were dead broke, living in this little bug-infested apartment — and the landlord was trying to evict us," said Gayela, 39.

"I'd lost my job at the department store and couldn't find another one, so we were living off Peter's insurance money. But that was almost gone and it was getting to the point where I was wondering how we were going to eat."

But all that changed the day Peter's numbers — 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 46 — hit the jackpot in the Australian lottery.

"This is absolutely incredible," gushed Gayela, waving a big fistful of crisp new bills.

"For the first time in our lives, we're living in a real house, with a lawn and a garden and a fence around it. Now the landlord can't touch us.

"The first thing I'm going to do is set up trust funds for the boys so they'll never, ever have to worry about where their next meal is coming from."

And when the moneybags mom and her boys celebrated their sudden turn of luck, they didn't want to leave Peter out of the festivities. So they packed up a picnic lunch and a bottle of champagne — and celebrated on his grave.

John Bynum, 16, added: "We all have the feeling that Dad's been up there watching over us and pulling a few strings. And since he couldn't come to the party, we took the party to him."

HUNTER COLLECTS WEREWOLF PELTS!

GLOBAL NEWS SERVICE

CONSTANTA, Romania — A hunter has been sued by the families of three reputed werewolves — who are demanding that he return the pelts of their slain loved ones. Since last summer, 47-year-old Tibor Strugariu has been publicly boasting that he shot the three creatures while out in the woods.

He claims that he then skinned them and mounted the pelts over his fireplace. Outraged relatives of the trio are insisting that he turn the furs over — or pay them a total of $30,000.

POPE BLOWS STACK OVER ROMAN ORGY!

ROME, Italy — Catholic Church officials have condemned millionaire Franco Bulbarelli for his plan to throw a "traditional Roman orgy" next Valentine's Day.

The shipping magnate recently sent out invitations to the no-holds-barred toga party to 200 of his wealthy pals — promising "so much sumptuous food you'll be able to gorge yourselves a dozen times" and "willing young nymphs and satyrs to entertain you."

But a Vatican spokesman last week blasted the planned bash as "obscene and decadent" and has threatened the tycoon with excommunication if he goes ahead with it.

HAPPY NEW EAR!

PROUD Pammy Mercer says the other kids treat her just fine now that her missing right ear, inset, has been replaced.

By BEN GOLD / Weekly World News

SYDNEY, Australia — The New Year has brought a new ear for adorable Pammy Mercer, the 6-year-old girl who asked Santa for an operation to replace her missing right ear.

Weekly World News readers joined hundreds of generous folks in little Pammy's hometown in a money-raising effort that made the courageous girl's dream come true.

"The money poured in at Christmastime and Pammy had an operation on December 28 to fit her with a prosthetic ear," said Pammy's proud mom. "She can put the ear on and off, and when she's wearing it she looks great, just great.

"She's proud as punch of her looks now and she's already become more outgoing and much happier. We can't thank your readers enough for what they did for Pammy. They've given her a whole new life."

On Dec. 19, 1995, this paper revealed the heart-tugging story of Pammy, who was born without her right ear and suffered terribly when schoolmates made fun of her. Pammy was counting on Santa to bring her a new ear because her mom had told her that without help they couldn't afford the $25,000 needed to pay for an operation to implant a prosthesis.

That's when NEWS readers stepped in. They sent Pammy and her mom a whopping $22,688 and that sum — along with another $4,501 chipped in by folks in Sydney — was enough to pay for the child's surgery.

"I asked Santa to help me and he did, he did!" says delighted Pammy, who has already completely adjusted to her brand-new ear. "I look just like all the other girls now — you can't tell there's anything wrong with me.

"This is the best Christmas present I ever had. I feel like a very lucky little girl."

A DREAM COME TRUE: Pammy shows off the prosthetic ear that has changed her life.

Kid with 140 I.Q. splits teacher's skull with paperweight — because she gave him a 'B'!

GIFTED Rudolf Virchev killed his teacher when she refused to change his grade to an A.

MOSCOW — A 10-year-old gifted student murdered his teacher by smashing her head with a lead paperweight — because she didn't give him an A on an arithmetic test, police say!

By RANDY JEFFRIES
Weekly World News

The boy, Rudolf Virchev, whose I.Q. is 140, was reportedly angry at getting a B-plus on the test.

Other students say he felt the grade was unfair and talked about it for days before finally venting his rage by killing the teacher.

"Words cannot express the extent of our shock," said Katrina Algunov, principal at Siderin School for Advanced Children. "Little Rudy was, by far, the nicest, most intelligent pupil we ever had here. He was always a polite, well-behaved boy.

"I just can't believe he's done this horrible thing."

But the boy has confessed to the gruesome murder and is being held at a central Moscow juvenile facility.

Police say the child told them he went into the classroom after school, hoping to persuade teacher Anna Rubinskina to change the grade.

When she refused, the child picked up a two-pound paperweight from her desk and struck her with it repeatedly.

"Getting a B was an unbearably traumatic experience for him," said child psychologist Dr. Yuri Gorchek, who interviewed the boy after the crime.

"He had never received anything less than an A and simply didn't have the maturity to handle it.

"With more and more pressure being put on children to produce perfect grades, we can expect to see more cases like this occurring in elementary schools all over the world."

Undertakers sell bodies to dog food company

MEXICO CITY — Prosecutors here have indicted seven undertakers for selling human corpses — for dog food!

"This is the most sickening case of corruption in the cemetery industry I have ever encountered," declared Jorge de la Pena, an investigator for the prosecutor's office.

The ring of undertakers — all related by either blood or marriage — preyed on the grieving loved ones of poor deceased peasants. They promised that for a reduced rate, they would cremate the bodies and place the ashes in a large group crypt.

Instead, charge prosecutors, they turned the remains over to a family member who owns a small dog food company.

Man is that irrational creature who is always looking for home atmosphere in a motel, and hotel service around the home.

WORLD'S GENTLEST GIANT!

Biggest wheelchair on Earth carries 8 feet, 9 inches of pure kindness!

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico — Eight-foot nine-inch Filipe Birriel, the oldest giant in medical history at age 64, wears the world's biggest shoes, rides the world's biggest wheelchair — and has the world's biggest heart!

Doctors call the 478-pound titan a living miracle. But to hundreds of handicapped children he's known lovingly as "El Gigante Simpatico" — the nice giant.

Birriel rides through the city in his six-foot tall, four-foot wide wheelchair giving hope and cheer to wheelchair-bound kids — who adore him.

"Little Maria was so sad because she couldn't run and play like other children," said the mother of a 6-year-old cerebral palsy victim (pictured here). "But Filipe has shown her it's possible to be happy no matter what circumstances you find yourself in."

Birriel, who can only walk for very short distances using a cane, says he's lucky to be alive.

"Because of my handicap, God has made me uniquely useful," he says. "I can give inspiration to kids. Who could ask for more?"

WANTED:

Everett Beakman, 96, AMERICA'S OLDEST KNOWN FUGITIVE!

DAYTON, Ohio — Bank robber Everett Beakman slipped out of police custody on Aug. 12, 1933 — and he's been on the run ever since!

The 96-year-old heist artist is America's oldest known fugitive from justice and his ex-cohorts on the lam is the longest on record.

LAWMAN: John Heuer.

Incredibly, dedicated lawman John Heuer, 65, is still pursuing the elderly crook.

"He's a cunning sucker. But one of these days he'll slip up — and I'll be there, waiting to cuff him," declares the gruff former police sergeant.

THIS recent photo of Beakman dated May 1994, was found at the home of his son — who died in July at age 72.

Islamic terrorists poison U.S. car air conditioning systems!

By RANDY JEFFRIES / Weekly World News

WASHINGTON — Islamic terrorists are contaminating American auto air conditioning units with a mind-altering chemical that will drive millions to violence and murder before the end of 1996!

So says a secret government report just brought to light by Gerald Adalson, who worked as a federal agent for 16 years. Adalson says the document was leaked to him by "concerned friends" in one of our nation's top investigative agencies.

FORMER agent Gerald Adalson.

"The substance is called EC-20," says Adalson, 45. "And unless immediate action is taken it will cause our nation to erupt in a massive and mindless brawl.

"The streets will run red with blood as we turn on one another for no apparent reason."

Adalson explained that ever since the October conviction of Islamic cult leader Sheik Omar Abdel-Rahman for the World Trade Center bombings, cultists have been retaliating by infiltrating major U.S. auto A/C companies and coating the units' cooling coils with the toxic liquid. EC-20 converts to a gas and leaks into the cars' interiors. Even when the A/Cs are turned off, the odorless gas is seeping in through the vents.

"When the level of EC-20 builds in the human body, it produces insane anger," says Adalson. "It accumulates slowly in the system, but most people don't feel the effects until something 'snaps' in the brain. Instantly, they go from normal law-abiding citizens to raging, hostile lunatics.

"By mid-November of 1996, half the country will be ramming their cars into one another, shooting, stabbing or beating each other to death — all without ever understanding why."

THE SECOND MOST HATED MAN IN AMERICA

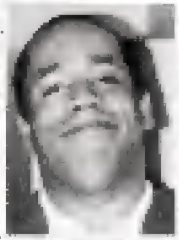
Dead ringer for O.J. says his life is Hell on Earth!

BOSTON — The double murder of Nicole Simpson and Ron Goldman made Walter Hicks' life a living Hell — because he's a dead ringer for O.J. Simpson, the man who went on trial for the crime!

By SUSAN JIMISON
Weekly World News

The 30-year-old landscaper and professional cook has been pointed at, followed, taunted and jeered. Folks tell him he should be in jail.

Children run from him. And now that O.J. is back on the streets, Hicks is dealing with angry citizens who think he got away with murder.



LOOK-ALIKE Walter Hicks.

"It's a terrible way to live," says Hicks, who has had to leave restaurants and other public areas because of harassment by strangers. "It's made my life Hell. People glare at me and say, 'You did it.' They say, 'Where are your gloves?' People treat me like I'm guilty. It really bothers me."

Hicks told Weekly World News that he used to enjoy looking like the football hero back when O.J. was a big celebrity.

The resemblance is so uncanny that he was stopped dozens of times each day by people who either mistook him for The Juice or commented on how much he looks like the man.

"That was fun, but the double murder changed things," Hicks said. "I started getting smart remarks and people pointing and yelling, 'Look! O.J. Simpson! Murderer!' I wish O.J. didn't look like me.

"It gets so bad that sometimes I have to wear sunglasses and a baseball cap to disguise myself.

"When I take the subway or the bus it's a pain in the neck. Sometimes you just want to be left alone."

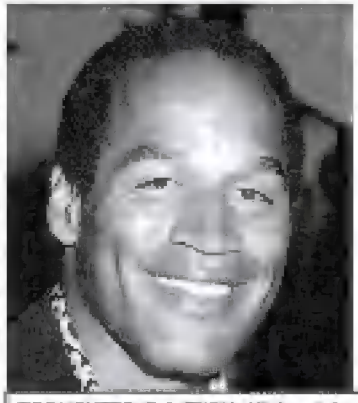
But being O.J.'s mirror image isn't all bad, Hicks admits.

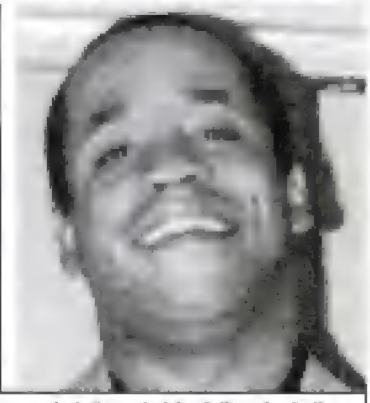
There are plenty of ladies out there who have a soft spot in their heart for the handsome athlete, and divorced Hicks reaps the benefits when it comes to romance.

Still, he doesn't believe O.J.'s public statements that he has gotten a warm reception out in the world since he was released from jail in October 1995.

"I believe he's getting terrible treatment in a lot of places and he's just not talking about it," Hicks said.

"I'm not O.J. and I'm getting harassed — I definitely know he's getting it."





TORMENTED O.J. TWIN: Hicks, right, says he's hounded by folks who believe that Simpson, left, killed Nicole Brown Simpson and Ron Goldman.

CAR RUNS ON HUMAN WASTE!

SEOUL, South Korea — Engineers at a research facility here say they have developed a car engine that runs on a cheap and plentiful fuel: Human waste!

The researchers say their prototype motor uses methane from the waste, is as powerful as ordinary gasoline-powered motors, and costs a third as much to operate.

UFO BEAMS UP CAR IN BUENOS AIRES

© Copyright Weekly World News 1996

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina — In one of the most terrifying UFO encounters ever, a giant spaceship hovered over a crowded highway in broad daylight — then beamed up a car!

By MIKE FOSTER
Weekly World News

Dozens of eyewitnesses watched in horror as the 1969 Chevrolet Cavalier was drawn up through a shimmering shaft of light — and a police photographer even snapped a clear photo of the UFO.

UFO EXPERT Nathan McCutcheon says he expects to see a rash of alien sightings in the United States within the next few months.

"It was the most astonishing thing I've ever seen," declared police Sgt. Francisco Perez, a 19-year veteran of the force. "The craft hovered over the highway at about 300 feet — then a blue beam of light streaked down to the car directly below.

"Other drivers saw a man, a woman and three small children in the vehicle. They say there was a look of raw fear in the passengers' eyes as they were sucked up into the enormous flying saucer."

The incident took place shortly after the morning rush hour on November 6, said Sgt. Perez, who was working on a hillside overlooking the highway. "I'd been called to the scene of a fatal shooting and was with two detectives, photographing the victim's remains.

"At about 10:37 a.m. there was a loud clap — which we all agreed was a sonic boom. We looked up and saw a large, strange object descending from the sky. First I thought it might have been a blimp, but it was moving too quickly — hundreds of miles per hour.

"Then it slowed to a dead stop over the highway and we could see that it was helmet-shaped and at least 200 feet in diameter.

"We watched in disbelief as the gray craft hovered there, perfectly still.

"Finally, I shook myself out of my paralysis, pointed my camera at the UFO and started snapping pictures."

Motorist Rosa Montes was on the road right behind the Chevy. "In the back window three lovely children were waving," she recalls.

When she heard the boom — followed by what sounded like the roar of a powerful engine overhead — she pulled over. "I looked up — and to my alarm, I saw a giant disk straight above me!

"After a moment, the bottom of the saucer opened up and a blinding light began to shine down. I thought it was going to strike me, but instead it enveloped the car in front of me.

"In seconds, the car began to rise in the air through the beam — as if it were being lifted by a giant hand.

"I could see the young family inside, screaming and beating on the doors to get out — it was awful. In just about 10 seconds the car was pulled up into the UFO and the opening closed.

"Then the spaceship shot up into the sky and vanished."

Mrs. Montes says she's still in shock. "It could easily have been me!"

The occupants of the car have not yet been identified, but police are attempting to do so. "To avoid panic, authorities are refusing to officially discuss the case," said Sgt. Perez.

Renowned American UFO expert Nathan McCutcheon has flown down to Argentina to investigate the incident.

"There have been hundreds of reports of alien abductions in recent years — but this is by far the most brazen," he said.

"Obviously, for some reason the aliens are now becoming bolder.

"I would expect to see similar incidents of UFO

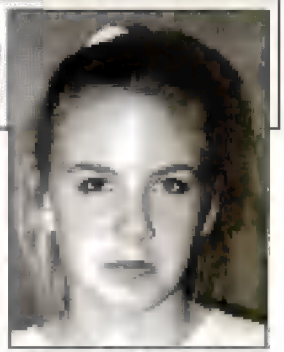
Town holds pregnant teen prisoner . . . to keep her from getting an abortion!



NO CHOICE: Gloria Nettles was forced to have her baby.

By MIKE FOSTER
Weekly World News

HASTINGS, New Zealand — A group of committed pro-lifers felt it would be a tragedy for a pregnant young woman to have an abortion — so they held her prisoner until she gave birth!

"Looking back, we're all convinced it was the right thing to do," declared the group's leader, Wallace J. Harmon, as he proudly cuddled the blue-eyed baby boy.

The strange saga began last February when pregnant 19-year-old Gloria Nettles had a car accident on the outskirts of this small town.

"She had suffered a concussion and was in a coma," explained local plumber Harmon. "The doctor also found she was pregnant.

"Many people rallied around Gloria, rooting for her and the baby — who they nicknamed Little Baby Hope — to pull through."

But when Gloria woke up from the coma a month later, she asked to have an abortion. "Doc, who's pro-life, refused," said Harmon.

Gloria then tried to get a ride out of town with Harmon and his wife — but the couple decided to prevent her from leaving.

"We offered to let her spend the night in an extra bedroom in our basement — then we locked her in," he said. "When friends heard what we were doing, they volunteered to help guard Gloria. A kindhearted nurse checked in on her every day."

Gloria spent the next eight months in the Harmons' basement. And on December 1, the nurse delivered the 7-pound, 3-ounce baby boy. The young woman decided to keep the child after being given a job as an orderly at the Hastings hospital.

New medical device saves vampires!

BRASOV, Romania — An innovative new medical device can save the lives of vampires — even when they are staked directly through the chest, according to the manufacturer. LEO
July 23 – Aug. 22

An elderly person could offer you some well-intentioned and extremely sound financial or business advice this week. Act on it immediately.

Be receptive to new ideas and suggestions. Someone close to you has a million-dollar idea and you could cash in if you play your cards right.

A lonely friend is dying to hear from you.

CAPRICORN
Dec. 22 – Jan. 19

Now is no time to be shy when it comes to romance. Go for it!

AQUARIUS
Jan. 20 – Feb. 18

Attend social functions. A pleasant surprise awaits.

PISCES
Feb. 19 – Mar. 20

A stranger will play a dramatic role in your life this week, but you may not learn of it for some time. Keep an eye out for hints that sweeping changes are in the air.

If your birthday is this week...

Mon., January 1 – Sun., January 7

The year ahead promises to be one of constant change and good fortune.

To reach maximum benefit, you'll have to be flexible. There will be many opportunities — but they'll only knock once. The opposite sex will find you particularly attractive this summer. If married, be careful. This is also a time for self-improvement.

Cheapo hospitals force surgeons to use plastic knives!

By MIKE FOSTER /Weekly World News

BOSTON, Mass — In a growing new medical trend, cost-conscious big city hospitals have begun to issue doctors plastic knives to perform major surgery.

"We have found that surgeons can perform appendectomies, kidney transplants and even heart bypass operations with ordinary plastic utensils," said a hospital administrator at one large metropolitan facility.

"While top-of-the-line stainless steel scalpels are extremely expensive, these instruments are only pennies apiece. In addition, there's none of the expense of cleaning and sterilizing plastic knives — after they've been used once, we simply throw them away."

Dr. Richard Lindale

Dr. Richard S. Lindale, a surgeon at the hospital, has used plastic knives in about 50 operations in the past six months.

"At first I was skeptical about the idea," he admits.

"I told the hospital that there was no way I was going to risk the lives of my patients by making incisions with the same type of knife you'd find at a family picnic. But the bean-counters insisted that I give it a try — and I found that with a little practice, the plasticware worked quite adequately. While certainly not as sharp as steel scalpels, they are light, flexible and easy to manipulate."

Some physicians are quite unhappy with the switch. "I had three knives snap on me during delicate brain surgery," reveals a neurosurgeon who asked not to be identified.

"There's no doubt that we'll lose more patients."

Nevertheless, a leading manufacturer of plastic knives, spoons and forks has announced plans to introduce a line of hardened plastic scalpels made from special molds by June 1996. The trend could save American taxpayers millions, notes a Washington lawmaker who's been spearheading the effort to trim Medicare costs.

"When surgeons across the country switch from steel to plastic scalpels, the cost of medical care will drop significantly. We may have to sacrifice a handful of lives, but it's worth it to cut the federal deficit."

But it's no picnic, say some worried docs

They oughta call it plastic surgery!

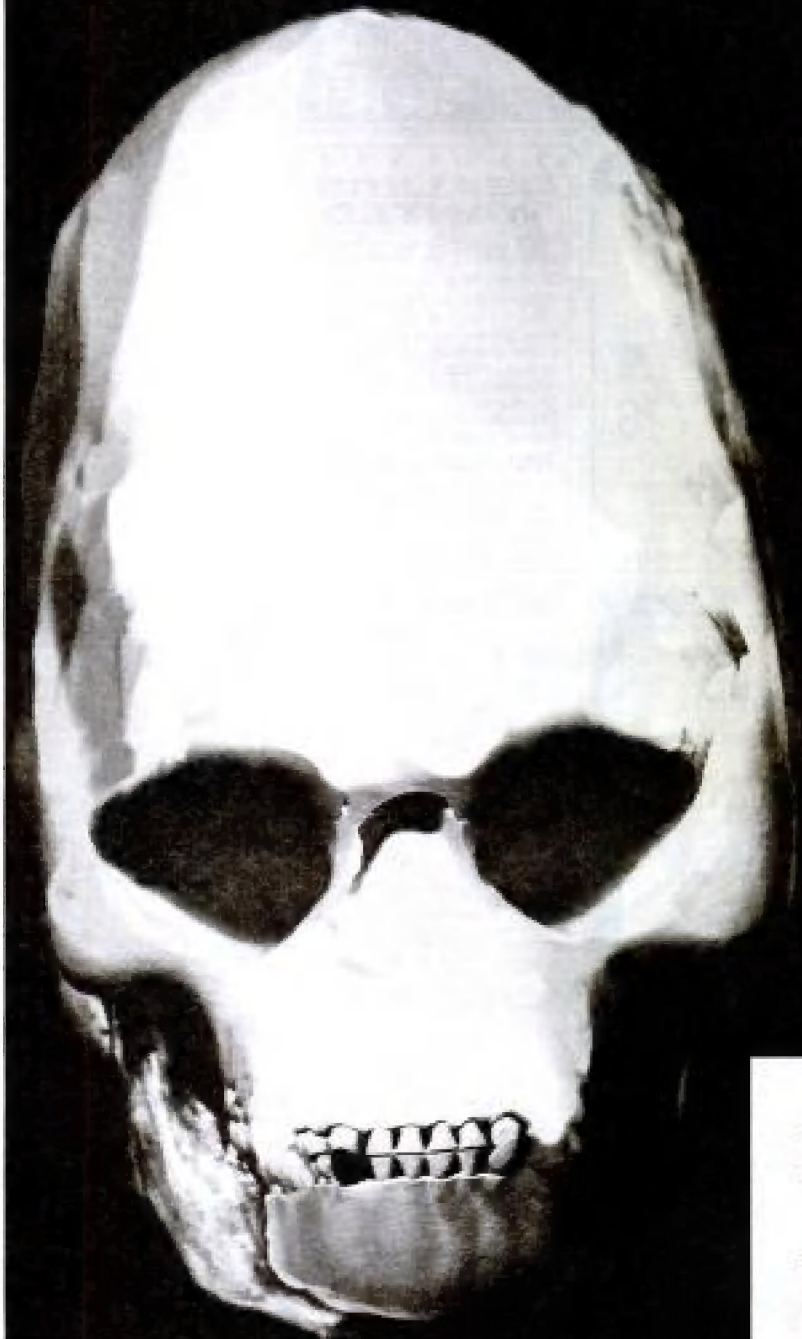
SPACE ALIEN SKULL FOUND



HAUNTING SKULL of creature from outer space was found near a rock formation where scientists

Sensational find at North Carolina UFO crash site stuns scientists!

By LISA MERAKIS / Weekly World News

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. — A young archaeologist has stunned his colleagues with his announcement of an extraordinary find: The genuine skull of an extraterrestrial!

Dr. Murray Claverton, 29, told a Boston symposium that he unearthed the bizarre artifact, which carbon dating reveals to be more than 3,000 years old, in a rock quarry not far from this city.

He had been studying a mysterious rock formation there which he believed to be of human origin and now believes was created when an alien spacecraft plowed into the Earth.

COMPUTER IMAGE reveals what alien may have looked like before his death.

"The skull is definitely not of this planet," Dr. Claverton told the recent meeting of archaeologists from Harvard, Columbia and the University of Pennsylvania.

"The cranium is enormous and obviously held a brain far larger than the brains of humans.

"The eye cavities are slanted and overly large.

"The nose is almost non-existent and the mouth is obviously a vestigial organ.

"There has never been an example of early man, nor any type of primate, that demonstrated these features.

"What's more, the actual material which comprises the skull is not like normal bone.

"It's incredibly dense and made of a mixture of calcium and some sort of strange crystalline substance that is much harder than human bone."

Dr. Claverton says he found the skull two months ago in a spot in the rock formation where he had earlier found evidence of searing temperatures, shards of a metal unknown to scientists and several scraps of a woven plastic-like material. These artifacts were concentrated at the center of the formation, where an explosion or fiery impact appears to have melted the rock.

ARCHAEOLOGISTS Dr. Murray Claverton, left, and Dr. Howard Whane, right, agree the E.T. skull is genuine.

The skull was almost complete, but was the only skeletal material found at the site.

"It looks like an explosion may have hurled the space alien's head free of the crash site so that it was not destroyed in the fierce flames that consumed the rest of the bones and wreckage," Dr. Claverton said.

"The skull remained in excellent condition under layers of sediment washed into the crash crater over the centuries.

"This amazing relic has told us a great deal about our visitor from outer space," Dr. Claverton said.

"We know he was probably much more intelligent than man, that he was about four feet tall, and that he had highly developed eyes and ears.

"We know he ate a bland diet that required little chewing because his teeth and jaws are weak and nearly useless. He probably did not have a sense of taste or smell."

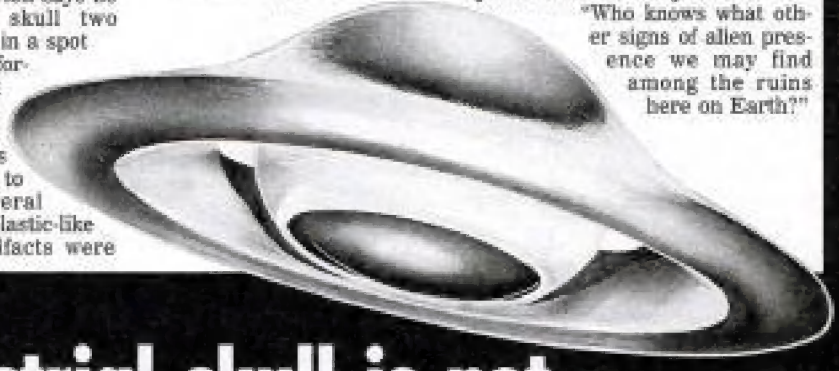
The archaeologist says experts are now working on reconstructing the alien skull to determine what the extraterrestrial looked like when he was alive.

Meanwhile, Dr. Claverton's revelation has been received with excitement among archaeologists in some of the country's top universities.

"Now we know there definitely is life on other planets," said Dr. Howard Whane, a British archaeologist and guest lecturer at Harvard.

"And we've learned this by unearthing relics from our own planet's far distant past.

"Who knows what other signs of alien presence we may find among the ruins here on Earth?"



Extraterrestrial skull is not of this Earth — it is neither

THESE PEOPLE WON & WON

Listen to them. They left their bad luck forever. These are real testimonies. Some of them are incredible:

AT THE HIPPODROME

Mr. Richard L., of Brooklyn:

". . . and then I won a lot of money. And we could pay for the surgery of my son. I always carry with me The Golden Clover"

A WISHED TRAVEL

Mrs. Anne K. of Los Angeles:

"I didn't believe in these things. We won so much in the Lotto that now we go to Europe every year."

FRESH MONEY

Mrs. Kim H., of Washington DC:

"I asked my husband many times to order The Clover. It was magical. The money would never last us until the end of the month. Now we are almost millionaires, because we won money at the Casino many times."

A GOOD JOB

Mrs. Christine R., of Miami:

"My daughter had been unemployed for a whole year. She ordered The Clover and she got a job with an excellent monthly salary. She is so happy now. Thanks to you."

THE WOMAN OF MY DREAMS

Mr. Charles A., of Phoenix:

"I found the woman that I always was looking for. Thanks to you and The Clover. I recommend it."

MY OWN BUSINESS, FINALLY

Mrs. Angela F., of Michigan:

YOUR LIFE CAN BE A NEW ONE

What the Four-Leaf and 33 wishes Clover made for these people can do for you too. You don't have to believe in these things, but you have to admit that there is something in it. Because The Clover has a magnetic and powerful irradiation which reactivates the power of clairvoyance that is hidden in each one of us.

Think then that all of your unachieved dreams can become true. But the most incredible of this is the following: That you can return it if your biggest and most wanted wishes do not become true within 3 months of having received it. Why do we do this? Simply because we are convinced that you will have good luck. A lot of good luck.

Perhaps the luck that you never imagine to have. We are so sure that we give you the guarantee of return. You may return it and we give you your money back. What did you lose? Nothing. Absolutely nothing. Because if it works for you, you win. If it doesn't work for you, you also win because you get your money back. You are protected. But we are sure that you won't return The Golden Clover. Good luck will be with you.

That is why we suggest that you send your order now. Don't waste any time. You will be very pleased when you receive it. Because your life will change as if by magic. In the envelope you will find The Clover and The Secret Manual to Make Your Wishes Come True. That is, how to make the luck wishes, the care you have to give it, Where to carry it. Everything is explained there step-by-step.

Think that we appeal to such things for good luck only once in our lives. These things cannot be bought every day, like food. It is just once in your lifetime. Please yourself. You don't lose anything. Don't you think it would be silly to let this opportunity of changing your life get away?
